Now Working on Fifth Avenue.

To the New York Herald: I have noticed a number of articles of late in the daily press, including a letter of James A. I beg to submit the following letter which I sent to Commissioner Arthur Woods May 15, 1917, and the reply of Deputy Secretary of Education.

The public should try to find out certain things before they let these bills be passed on a wave of sentimental oratory about "better babies" and the like.

What are the characteristic American methods of going at the so-called velfare problems, by the interplay of volunteer associations independent of political control, with county and State officials capable of supplying statistical information and of bringing laws into force where necessary? What have these agencies done hitherto to improve the stacle is there to further efficient development along these flues?

reau and many salaries to administer it?

The proposition (House of Representatives bill 5837) for a welfare department sets up an amazing system of patronage and power, centred in a few hands arbitrarily selected. The Towner maternity bill (Senate 1939) is cut from the same cloth. The Towner education bill would put into these same bands at Washington purse strings wherewith schools throughout the country may be strangled into conformity with any standard set up by the "Secretary of Education."

ROME, June 12.—Representatives of new territories annexed to Italy by the peace settlement were welcomed by King Victor Emmanuel at Parliament's opening. It was the duty of the new Parliament, declared the King, to enact legislation to bring the country back to prewar conditions. He made an earnest appeal for the cooperation of all political parties.
